How it works—a continuous cycle of reading practice

Research-proven effectiveness

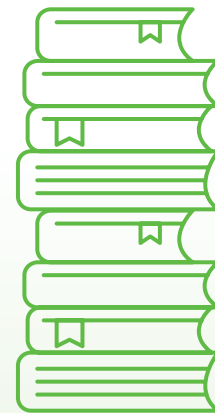

Accelerated Reader is one of the most heavily researched programs in the world with the largest database of K–12 learning analytics.

This invaluable insight tells us that when Accelerated Reader is implemented with best practice, specifically around personalized goal setting, student achievement and performance increase more than those who don't use Accelerated Reader.

Students who:

- ✓ read 25 minutes a day
- ✓ read within their zone of proximal development
- ✓ average 85% on their AR quizzes

Guide: Maximize independent reading time by setting the right goals

Simple-to-use goal setting tools

Your Renaissance Star Assessment® data flows seamlessly into Accelerated Reader to automatically create goals at a student's "just-right" reading level. Students can track their individual goals to gain agency over their learning.

Accelerated Reader allows you to effortlessly create personalized goals around the three factors proven to make reading practice most effective:

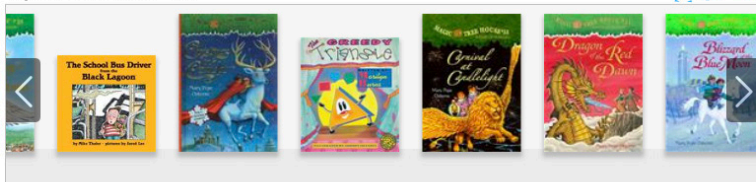

- Comprehension (average percent correct)
- Quantity (engaged reading time)
- Complexity (book level)

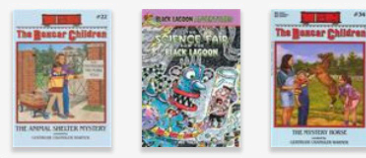

Engage: Motivate with “just-right” recommendations and endless choice

Provide students with reading suggestions based on their reading history, level, and book popularity.

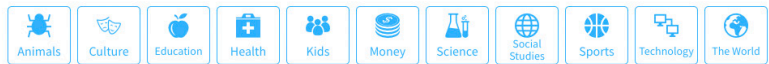

Star Assessment data fuels reading recommendations personalized with precision to each student's individual reading level.

As students read and take quizzes, the program's algorithms further refine recommendations based on their interests.

Nonfiction Articles

2,000 nonfiction articles available in Accelerated Reader allow students to expand their reading choice to more nonfiction text. Students can browse, select, read, and quiz on a variety of nonfiction topics within the program.
